

The Rue Family UKRAINE

October – November 2025

Dear Praying Friends and Family,

First Things First: A safe, functional, stable home is imperative for the long haul on the mission field. That is why my short list of initial objectives included: 1) obtaining our residency permits, 2) securing a good water source, and 3) setting up our home for safety and functionality. We have made good progress, but, after three months, we are still working on the list. I am so thankful and relieved that we now have an abundant source of good clean water. We were able to tap into an existing well and upgrade our pump and water lines. It took a lot of resources, but it is such a blessing that the water project is now completed. The backup power system was worth the wait and has made a huge difference in our ability to function. I believe that we would have set ourselves up for failure if we had hurried back to the field. I'm glad we waited for the Lord's provision and installation of our inverter system. They have been rationing the power supply and winter hasn't even hit yet. The electricity is off 12-13 hours a day and they say it is going to get worse. We thank God for all of you who gave so that we could have heat, water, and electricity.

Too bad that Ukraine doesn't have an "Open Border" policy like many in Washington DC! That would make things very easy for me! Thankfully we finished all necessary requirements for Naomi, Miriam, Christopher and me to obtain our residency permits and registrations. We are now fully legal and can operate freely in Ukraine under present martial law. However, after exhausting all our options, we hit a temporary snag with Michael's residency permit and will have to return to the USA to finish the process, after which we will be good to go. As Ukraine transitions to be more like Europe, so their visa system changes as well. In the past, our children under the age of eighteen did not need a visa or residency permit. They were automatically under our status as parents. Today, Ukraine does not have a provision for a family like ours to easily reside in Ukraine under one visa status. Michael, for now, can only legally live with us in Ukraine through a provision that is more suitable to reuniting a family that has been separated for various reasons. It was somewhat discouraging at first, but I have accepted it as from the Lord. We will have to appear at the Embassy of Ukraine in Washington DC with Michael to complete the process, which, in fact is much like the process required for an immigrant to receive a Green Card in the USA.

Church Update: Transitioning from pastor-pioneer-founder of a church to taking a backseat to national leadership was new and awkward at first. Thank God, neither Pastor Alexei nor I feel that one of us needs to leave in order for the church to grow. We have found our niche and our relationship with our church is strong as ever. I am preaching an English service for my family and anyone else who would like to attend. I still preach as occasion requires, in the Russian language, with no problems. People in our area still converse in Russian but Ukrainian is emerging more and more in local dialogue. After we have finished all the necessary paperwork for my family to legally reside in Ukraine we plan to celebrate our church's anniversary. 2026 will mark the completion of 30 years of ministry since her beginning in 1995. All glory be to God!
